

PCDS Annual Meeting

Friday 8th & Saturday 9th March 2024

Leonardo Royal Hotel, London (Tower Hill Tube)

An Invitation For You

Dear Members and Friends of the Society,

It would be a real pleasure to celebrate 30 years of the PCDS with you all on Friday 8th and Saturday 9th of March 2024 at the Leonardo Royal Hotel in London, near to the Tower of London. Not only has an excellent programme been compiled and tailored to all healthcare professionals working within primary and community care, we will also be celebrating this milestone in style!

Over two full days, there will be keynote speakers presenting on topics such as acne, eczema, aesthetics in dermatology, psychodermatology and hair. We are excited to have Lesley Smith, the Curator at Tutbury Castle, Staffordshire back on Friday afternoon to give an historic view of dermatology. Some of you may remember her outstanding performance a few years ago, and those who have not seen and heard her will be in for a treat.

Both days will feature breakout sessions with traditional workshops as well as streams relevant to different healthcare professions. They are either practical such as our established surgical workshop, the popular emollients and steroid workshop but also take you through sessions on 'how to take photographs including dermoscopy' or 'how to make the most of advice and guidance'. Furthermore, there will be lecture style options on topics such as hidradenitis suppurativa, travel dermatology, nails, skin of colour, blistering diseases to name a few.

Although the programme is bursting with educational content, enough time has been allowed during the coffee and lunch breaks to network and visit the stands of our sponsors.

Friday evening is reserved for a dinner and dance marking 30 years of dermatology education through the PCDS. Siobhan and Carol, as always, will ensure that the venue reflects the occasion and the entertainment is outstanding. A party not to be missed!

We look forward seeing you all in London!

Angelika Razzaque and David Leckie
